Some interesting NWBC history

The Northwest Bird Club was started in the late 1970's with the goal of promoting the keeping and breeding of exotic birds. The club was spun-off from a poultry club. To this day, many of our members keep poultry in addition to cage birds.

The following are some of the reasons people join our club!

- To share our experiences of our bird species with people we get to know and trust!
- To get help in times of crisis, loss of birds, and quick answers for bird care
- To have access to a breeder you know well, raising the birds you might want or need!
- To learn about birds you didn't even know existed!
- To hear speakers educate, inspire and share their interests and knowledge!
- To gain bird health, care and homing knowledge and share stories with other companion bird owners.
- Make new friends at our monthly meetings, annual picnics and special events!
- To have access to our Monthly Newsletter chock-full of valuable and interesting information!

If you have had an interesting or insightful birding experience, have a Skill or Craft , a Profession or Hobby, be it creating art, bird friendly gardens or studying pet or wild bird behavior that may inspire or teach us more about our feathered companions, we would love to have you share with us.
